“CONNECT THE DOTS”

The artist Paul Klee once said, “A line is a dot going for a walk.”

In our classroom, we have worked a lot this year with drawing “lines.” Recently, we did a project not with lines but with “dots.” In a stippling design, the artist strategically places dots to suggest forms, shapes, and values. The students did a beautiful job – choosing to stipple whatever designs interested them. Creative subjects ranged from tigers to tea-cups. Take a look!

“Surreal” Works of Art

Students studied “Surrealism” and “Dream Art”.

As students observed some of the works of Salvador Dali, they brain-stormed ideas for the images they wanted to include in their multi-media drawings. Then, they just let their imaginations run wild.....creating wonderfully surreal works of art!
